

Your career. Your future. Your way.

Personalised support on your path to work and beyond.

If you're looking for work and living with disability, a treated illness, injury or mental health condition, we can help.

Support as unique as you

Whether it's finding a job you enjoy or building a lasting career, we're with you every step.

- Build confidence and skills.
- Get help to find and apply for suitable jobs or training.
- Learn about and meet local employers.
- Connect to supports like allied health and community services.
- Use Campus to access online tools and learning, track your progress and stay updated.
- Find out what funding you're eligible for.

Once you start work, we're here as long as you need us. We'll help you settle in and support you and your employer for the first year and beyond.

Your goals, needs and story matter.

We take the time to understand you, so you get support that suits you.

You'll always have choice and control in how we help you.

- Tell us what's important to you and why.
- Chat to us about your interests, skills and experience.
- Create a tailored plan that works for you.
- Our support changes as your goals and needs do.

We're open, genuine and want to see you succeed – however that looks for you.

Disability specialists who get you

We've supported people from all walks of life and know everyone's different. At each stage of your journey, you'll work with one of our disability employment specialists. Many have lived experience.

This means you'll always get support that fits where you're at, from an expert who understands you.

You won't have to keep explaining your story because we listen and genuinely care.

We offer a range of employment programs, including Inclusive Employment Australia.
